on general subjects. In May, 1881, she dined at Mr. Bloke's house. He was very friendly to her. He sat at the head of the table and carved the roast heef. The conversation related mostly to the lilines of Mrs. Dale. On cross-examination the vitness could not remember whether or not there was a waster present at the dinner. She was too busy enjoying berself to notice such things; moreover, she could not see what good it would do to remember such a trivial fact.

T. M. Davis, a railway commission merchant, stated that he had known Mr. Stokes since about 1854. In later years he had only seen him occasionally and accidentally. He had conversed with him once in Madison Square after the death of Mrs. Stokes in reference to a woman who had become his tenant on the recommendation of the witness. He also met Mr. Stokes one Sunday morning as he came out of his house in Madison-ave. The witness on these two occasions saw no marked change in Mr. Stokes as compared with former years. He did not notice any failure of mind in Mr. Stokes; such a thought never entered the witness's mind. On cross-examination Mr. Davis said that Mr. Stokes had been a very close business man.

The examination will be continued on Monday. been a very close business man.

THE COURTS.

A CURIOUS POINT OF LAW. In the Passaic County Courts, at Paterson, yesterday, the suit of Mrs. Ann Smith against the New-York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad Company for $12,000 damages was begun. In December, 1881, a "gondola" loaded with stone, which was standing on a side track at Van Winkle's Station, started down a grade and got in the way of a passenger train which was approaching. The car in which Mrs. Smith was eitting was thrown down an embankment by the cellisitting was thrown down an embankment by the collision and Mrs. Smith was badly hurt. The claim of the plaintiff was that the company wasnegligent in not securing the "gondola" on the switch. Mrs. Smith, who was employed in a silk mill, stated that the accident had prevented her from following the employment by which she supported herself and three children. Senator J. W. Griggs appeared for the plaintiff and Senator John W. Taylor and S. Tattle for the defence. Senator Taylor asked for a non-suit on the ground that the accident occurred on Sunday, and that Mrs. Smith, not being engaged in a work of necessity or mercy, was violating the law in travelling on that day and could not, therefore, recover damages for any injury received. The Court overruled the motion.

A RUMOR WHICH CAUSED A PANIC.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] CHICAGO, May 9 .- The rumor was abroad here just after the close of the regular board and just be-fore the beginning of the "call," that the Washington Agricultural Bureau report to be made public to-morrow would show a decrease of 15 per cent in winter and an increase of 20 per cent in the spring wheat. The announcement came from New-York and was, of course, unintelligible. Telegrams were at once sent inquiring you all we've got. We don't know what it means ourselves." Without knowing what was meant, the news was at once interpreted to be "bearish," and a little pause ensued on the "cail" board. Wheat declined in a twinkling almost three-quarters of a cent, and corn half a cent a bushel. A descent was at once made by the big "bears," Roche, Sherwin & Co., Wheeler, Gregory & Co., and Lester & Co. The scalpers, who for the most part have been "bears" too, joined in, and then a great many "tailers," whose purchases have been made on thin margins, joined the sellers. Over 1,500,000 bushels were sold in a twinkling at continually declining prices. When the "call" was over, however, prices were a little firmer, but one cent under those of last night. The June option

There are a number of traders here who are of the opinion that Armour has seld out. If these men had seen the packers' employes hurrying around to-day tracing the rumors concerning the much-talked-of agricultural report, they would have given of yesterday it reflects a more active market. The ever the idea that Armour has sold his figures will surprise the most careful observers of wheat. The effect of to-day's alleged advance informaupon the hypothesis that the damage to winter wheat has been a good deal greater than 15 per cent. Corn weakened out of sympathy for wheat, but rich speculators are still buying. The alarm concerning the seeding of this grain still continues. The rains, which are now recurring every day, are declared to be bad for the seed already planted and increases the danger to be expected because of the bad condition of the kernels before they were put in the ground. Pork and lard were as much influenced by the feeling about the wheat-pit as any of the grains. The selling, indeed, began with provisions, they coming first in order on the "call." Eighteen thousand five hundred barrels of pork and 21,500 tierees of lard changed hands in a very few minutes, and the prices were considerably lowered. Pork closed at $20 10 for June and $20 22½ for July, 5971; cents below the figures of inst night. Lard showed a decline when the day's business was finished of 12½215 cents, stopping at $11.90 for June and $12 02½ for July. weakened out of sympathy for wheat, but rich specustopped at $1 13% and the July at $1 15%.

WEDNESDAY, May 9-P. M.

The recorded transactions in stocks at the Stock Exchange to-day are 300,500 shares; and in that this amount is 70,000 shares more than the business figures will surprise the most careful observers of the market, because at all times the dulness was more oppressive than that of yesterday. An analysis of the record, however, shows that the transactions of 46,700 shares in St. Paul against 15,200 shares yesterday, and of 58, 100 in Delaware, Lackawanna and Western against 6,800 yesterday, more than account for the total gain in to-day's business. The opening was dull and weak; but a special movement in St. Paul, which advanced its price from 10434 to 10518 th large business was reported at 105), momentarily to check the general disposition toward lower prices, and a rally succeeded. The movement in St. Paul is best explained by the fact that it closed the same as last evening-at 1045s. After the rally was over there followed a dull and slow decline, which continued to the end. Central of New-Jersey closed 78 lower than yesterday. Reading, after selling up to 561g, closed as last evening at 55%, and Delaware, Lackawanna and partment of Agriculture has just completed a report Western declined from 127% to 126% 126%. THE PETROLEUM MARKET,

New-York, May 9. Slowly and quietly to-day the petroleum market gathered further strength. There was no special stimulus to purchasers, and as a matter of fact the improvement in prices was made in the face of a general disposition among traders to sell. There was a little early hesitation between 93423924c., against 934sc. last night, but for the remainder of the day the market hardened gradually to 94% 39449c. The close was strong.
